MANY DESERTERS TRIED

Judge Advocate-General Gives Report for the Year.

WASHINGTON Oct 19 .- The annual report of Gen. George B. Davis, Judge Advocate-General of the army shows that of the commissioned officers tried during the last year by general courtmartial, thirty-five were convicted and thirteen acquitted. Three cadets and 4393 enlisted men were convicted while 356 men were acquitted. The total number of trials before general court-martial of 4800 cases shows an increase of 551 cases over last year.

This increase is mainly due to the fact that a large number of deserters have been apprehended and brought to trial, the number of convictions for desertion being 1476 this year, an increase of 440. This gain is chiefly due to the increase of the reward paid to all civil officers for the apprehension of deserters, inducing greater vigilance on their part. The number of men sentenced to dishonorable discharge was

YELLOWSTONE ROAD IS BEING RUSHED

Will Be in Operation Before Spring Travel Has Begun.

WILL RUN THROUGH FINE AGRICULTURAL COUNTRY

Terminal Will Be Built in Southwestern Corner of Park.

the proposed branch being built by the Gregon Short Line into the Yellowstone Park. Contractors are now at work opening up the grade from St. Anthony on towards Marysville. This branch has been talked of for the past five years and is now a certainty. For several years there has been a steady increase in the travel to the park and during the season just past the tourist travel via the Monida stage line taxed the accommodations of this line to their utmost.

Outside of the passenger travel that it will receive, there are other inducements that would justify a road being built from that point through the fine farming land of that locality. The country surrounding the southwest corner of the park is considered the richest in Wyoming and loaho and will develop rapidly into a fine agricultural community when this road is built.

The work will progress rapidly as the grade along the proposed line is very light as it does not go above 1 per cent excepting at a few points. The track will be very nearly straight. A terminal will be located in the lower and southwestern corner of the park. that would justify a road being built from

BUSY SCENE AT GARFIELD

Over One Thousand Men Are at Work Along the Beach.

Along the Beach.

A traveler who came to this city yesterday on the Salt Lake Route said the scene along the road out at Garfield Beach was certainly a busy one. This can be easily believed when it is known that there are over 1200 men working in that locality. Of this great number some seven hundred are being employed at the big smelters which are now in the course of erection near the point of the mountain. There are five hundred tents pitched near the site of the smelters for the accommodation of these men.

Five hundred men are at work along the proposed Western Pacific line, busily engaged in opening the grade. The provisions and supplies for this army of laborers are, to the greater part, procured in this city.

The fact became known with the arrest today of John Yorke, a waiter, and Albert Schultz, who until two weeks ago was a bellboy at the hotel. Schultz gave up his position or was dismissed a week ago. The detectives say that the picture of Schultz, though he has never been in jail is in the rogues' gallery. They say that he was arrested on February 19 last with two other bell boys. Earl Furlong and John Driscoll, in the Gallatin hotel, where all three were employed, on charges of stealing jewelry from guests. Furlong and Driscoll were found guilty and sent to Elmira. Schultz was released for lack of evidence.

Entered in Disguise.

A detective says he has evidence that two or three nights before Mrs. Hoadley's lewels were stolen Schultz, in disguise, entered the dining hall unrecognized and went upstairs to the floor on which the Hoadley spartment is. On the same night a key to the apartment on the same floor occupied by a guest named Murray was lost or stolen.

AMUSEMENTS

terested not at all in his deals, but setting a high value on affection. The situation that results offers an enticing subject for domestic discussion. The matter of properly apportioning the blame is a delicate one, but many will attempt it. Thus such a play as this is a givent aid to household conversation. Its marital theme will provoke disputes for days, and even then the great question fivolved will coubliess be far from being settled.

But its offering heightly hints to the unhappliy mated. The Pit' is merely observing a time-licoverd habit of the drama. Its rather diverting but immaterial comedy, too, has its familiar note. But on its speculation side it is unioual. Here it has its distinct novelty, and while one may say that it invites admiration for its stagecraft more than it communicates the spirit of excitement, it has a feverishness all he own, that marks it as unique. The faverishness is not merely discernible in its grain features. It is manifest in the home section. Everywhere spreads the unrest of the gambling life.

Mr. Lackaye is anic sted thoroughly by this crifit of the gambler in grain. As a market transpulator he gives you a sense of genuineness. Especially is this true in the office scene, where the action is most convincing.

ness Especially is this true in the office scene, where the action is most convincing. Necessarily, it cannot be true of the pit scene, where the resemblance to the actual board of trade craziness is good, but where the clausoring crowd, being unable to cause deception itself, prevents the star from conveying an impression of reality. In revesting the development of mental trouble resulting from the awful strain of the corner, Mr. Lacksye is throughout artistic. The close of the play, when the husband is broken in fortune and in spirit, gives the wife the character taken by Miss Goker, a long-deferred impulse of sincerity, and obeying it, she gets closer to him and to the andlence. The support is large and competent, and the equipment effective.

The special feature of Sam Devere's own company, which appears at the Lyric for the week commencing Saturday matines is Andy Levis & Co., in an original "covainized" comedy in one act, entitled "The Queen of Ravaria." from the pen of Barney Geard and Andy Lewis. This act has been accorded much favorable comment by the press thoughout the country. The central character is a "cocaine" flend and has been the means of much talk, as the author's conception of this character is true to life. The finale of the act is almost melodramatic, where the flend awakes from a dream and becomes enraged and treasies everything in the house, on top of this comes a comedy situation and the audiance is bewildered and amused at the same time.

The two brilliant young Englishmen, Owen Hall, author of "Florodora," and Ivan Carlyle, composer of around a dozen musical successes, are responsi-ble for "The Girl From Kay's."

Be Sure to use a Creamof Tartar Baking Powder

ROYAL Baking Powder is Made of Cream of Tartar and is Free From Alum or Phosphatic Acid

Royal Baking Powder is pure and wholesome beyond question. There is never any doubt of the healthfulness nor of the superiority of the food it leavens.

Consumers are sometimes solicited to buy baking powders other than Royal because they cost less. It is evident to cost less they must be made of inferior ingredients.

Low-priced baking powders-10c., 20c., 25c., etc.,are made from alum, phosphate or other harsh acid

At most, an alum powder would not lessen the cost of a cake or batch of biscuit more than the fraction of a cent. But can you afford for any sum to endanger your health by making your food with a dangerous baking powder?

"I regard the use of alum baking powders as highly injurious to the health of the community, and believe that their sale should be forbidden by law."-GEO. F. BARKER, M.D., University of Pennsylvania.

DEPENDS ON STRAUP

View of New Judge Will Settle Important Case in Supreme Court. A motion for a rehearing was argued and submitted in the Supreme court yesterday in the case of A. Booth & Co. against G. M. Wiegand, appellant.

Suit was brought by the respondents in the lower court to recover a certain sum from Welgand. Welgand set up as a defense that the company was a foreign fense that the company was a foreign corporation and that it had no right to do business in Utah for the reason that it had not complied with the State law, requiring foreign corporations to file certificates of incorporation here before doing business in the State.

The lower court found against Wiegand and he took an appeal to the Supreme court, where the judgment was reversed. The court was divided, however, Justices McCarthy and Baskin concurring and Justice Barich dissenting. Since the rendition of the opinion, Justice Baskin has left the beach and Justice Straup has taken his place. Now, as the two Justices who sat in the case before are on opposite sides of it, whatever Justice Straup determines will rule.
